

We can reopen the old assumptions and conceptual models if we think with our more intricate experiencing as well as with logic. We can think everything more truly if we think it with attention to how we think it, and with the critical understanding that no concept, rule, or distinction ever equals experiencing. Eugene Gendlin

Unlock your potential with TECTU: a dynamic program merging research, thinking, and intricate experiencing. Developed by experts across seven European universities, Embodied Critical Thinking and Understanding is designed to enhance your independent, creative, and critical approach. Immerse yourself in novel methodologies, from Thinking-at-the-Edge, Environmental Immersion, Experiential Listening, Micro-phenomenology, and contemplative approaches, fostering a deeper understanding of subject matters. When reductive and polarizing thinking threatens human and more than human life on earth, join us on an innovative journey, where curiosity meets transformation!

TRAINING IN EMBODIED CRITICAL THINKING AND UNDERSTANDING (TECTU) is an interdisciplinary program initiated by philosophers, cognitive scientists, environmental designers, anthropologists, and sociologists for students, researchers, and professionals of all fields.

ONLINE COURSES provide interdisciplinary foundations of Embodied Critical Thinking and Understanding based on theories of the embedded, embodied, extended, enactive and ecological mind.

THE SUMMER SCHOOL offers practical explorations of embodied and experiential methods of thinking and research.

INDEPENDENT PROJECTS are pursued across all fields and disciplines by participants, under the supervision of a TECTU teacher.
